Course Description

This course is intended to help state and local transportation professionals address pedestrian safety issues through design and engineering solutions. The course is best suited for engineers, planners, traffic safety and enforcement professionals, public health and injury prevention professionals, and decision-makers who are seeking ideas and solutions for making changes to the physical environment that improve safety for pedestrians.

Course Objectives

A number of key topics related to improving conditions for pedestrians will be covered in this workshop including:

- Pedestrian inclusion in all geometric design, operation and safety considerations
- Impact of land-use, street connectivity and site design in making a safer pedestrian environment
- Pedestrian and driver interactions, including pedestrian crash types
- Planning and street design related to pedestrian safety
- Effective solutions and best practices in design

In addition, participants will take part in a field exercise as a critical element to the course. The class is broken into smaller groups to walk and study a nearby intersection or corridor for possible pedestrian safety improvements. The groups brainstorm and share engineering and policy solutions.

Fill in the requested information, select your class session from the menu, then press "Submit." You will receive an e-mail confirmation when we process your request. If you do not receive this e-mail confirmation within 48 hours, you may not be registered and should contact us by phone. Two weeks prior to the class you will be mailed a confirmation notice along with driving directions to the classroom location and the observation site.

If, at the last minute, you are unable to attend, someone else from your agency may attend in your place. If you have questions about this training, have trouble registering on-line, or wish to cancel your registration, contact Judy McDonald at McdonJT@wsdot.wa.gov (360)705-7355.

Please note: Lunch will be the responsibility of the participant.
